Sculpture – “The Trajectory Heart”

Thomas Mann, internationally known jewelry and sculpture artist, brought a new community art project to the Lehigh Valley.

Students, artists and members of the community worked with Mann to build the Trajectory Heart Sculpture in downtown Allentown, Mann's hometown.

The Trajectory Heart Project, which began in 2009 during an artist in residence program with the Studios of Key West, demonstrates the importance of bringing art to the community by publicly sharing the complete experience of building and documenting the sculpture.
